

THIRD-PARTY LABORATORIES CERTIFICATION MARKS AND LABELS

The following chart identifies most of the marks and labels used by Third-Party Laboratories approved by the NCDOL. Some labs may have additional marks, and many of the labs have marks approved for use in other jurisdictions, but not in the United States. To find the most up-to-date information about a lab's certification markings, please follow the link associated with the lab's name. A chart containing some non-approved labels follows the chart of approved labels. If you have any questions about the authenticity of any mark, please contact a QA Inspector.

NON-APPROVED AND UNACCEPTABLE LABELS/MARKINGS

The table below contains examples of non-approved and unacceptable labels/markings. As a rule, if the mark or label has a subscript for any jurisdiction, and it does not also indicate “US” or “NRTL” —or it is not a mark or label from one of the NCDOL-approved Third-Party Laboratories—then it is not acceptable. If you have any question about whether a particular label is acceptable, please contact the QA inspector.

Beware of counterfeit labels and non-approved labs using label designs confusingly similar to those of approved labs.

AGENCY	MARKING	NOTES
CSA International		Mark without any country specified or with only “c” subscript (Canadian standard) is not accepted in the U.S.
Intertek		Superscript “EU” shows this mark is approved for EU only
Product Safety mark for European Union (EU)		Based on manufacturer’s or importer’s self-certification of compliance
Product safety mark for China		Based on manufacturer’s self-certification of compliance
Product safety mark for Mexico		Based on manufacturer’s self-certification of compliance
